

A Costly Lunch

Three passersby had lunch at an inn and set off on their way.

"Say, lads, didn't we pay too much for lunch?"

"Well, I may have paid a lot," said one, "but it wasn't for nothing!"

"What do you mean?"

"Didn't you notice? Every time the innkeeper looked away, I'd grab a handful of salt from the salt cellar and pop it in my mouth, pop it in my mouth!"